The Louisiana Workers' Compensation Law states that "Within 10 days of actual knowledge of injury resulting in death or in lost time in excess of one week after the injury, the employer shall report same to the insurer." The form that must be completed is the Employers Report of Injury/Illness.

Nothing can happen on a claim until the employer completes and turns in this form. Under the workers' compensation law, we now have certain non-emergency pre-certification rights. We must have this form before we can make any authorizations.

Failure to report a claim in a timely manner can result in possible penalties and attorney fees.
